UCEAP Students and Alumni Meet in China

Last month, over 30 current UCEAP students and 100 UC alumni had the opportunity to meet at events held in Beijing and Shanghai. In addition to courses at Chinese partner universities and Chinese language study, UCEAP supports our students through internships and other service learning opportunities. Our UC alumni abroad are instrumental in creating internship opportunities for our students.

Beijing speakers included UCEAP alumni Addison Yang (UCLA, China 2015), Andy Zhang (UC Berkeley, Korea 2010) and James Flanagan from TEDXBeijing. In Shanghai, UCEAP alumnus Jason Chang from DLA Piper Law (UC Berkeley, China 2001) and France Lin from The Walt Disney Company (UCLA 2011), shared opportunities for students to participate in internships at their respective companies. A big thank you to our alumni for making these events a success and to our study center teams in Beijing and Shanghai for the planning and support of these events.

Alumni Profile: Scott Reed, President and CEO of the Music Academy of the West

With 20 years of experience in the classical music industry, UCEAP alumnus Scott Reed has become a leader in arts education and administration. Scott has been the President and CEO of the Music Academy of the West, in Montecito, CA since 2010.

Scott attended UC Santa Barbara, where he majored in Vocal Performance. In 1996 he spent a semester abroad with UCEAP at the Université Lumière Lyon 2, studying French to improve his facility with the language when singing. He credits this term in France for directing his future career in arts administration and developing his passion for making performing arts accessible to everyone. Continue Reading.
